Harvard Gattton Style

Adapted from the Style manual for authors, editors and printers / revised by Snooks & Co. 2002

How to Guide

When writing assignments you have to cite (acknowledge) the source of your ideas and quotes in sufficient detail so that lecturers, and others, can locate the item.

Prior to starting your assignment check with your lecturer/tutor for the style preferred by the School. Use this guide if your lecturer/tutor indicates that you should use the Harvard style of referencing.

Keep in mind the following points:

- Write down all the citation details of a source as you use it.
- Place quotation marks ‘ ’ around a direct quote.
- When using a direct quote include the page number(s) in the in-text reference.
- You are advised to check with your lecturer as to their preference on the use of page numbers.
- The Reference List, located at the end of the assignment, lists all works cited.

Books

Elements of the citation

Author(s) of book – surname and initials Year of publication, Title of book – italicised, Edition, Publisher, Place of publication.

A book with one author

Reference list:

Jackson, SM 2003, Australian mammals: biology and captive management, CSIRO Publishing, Melbourne.

In-text referencing examples:

‘During warm weather Tasmanian devils will often bathe their feet’ (Jackson 2003, p. 245).

Jackson (2003) states that Tasmanian devils enjoy wetting their feet if the weather is warm.

A book with two authors

Reference list:

Taiz, L & Zeiger, E 2002, Plant physiology, 3rd edn, Sinauer Associates, Sunderland, Mass.

In-text referencing examples:

Physiological processes are shared by all plants (Taiz & Zeiger 2002).

Taiz and Zeiger (2002, pp. 94-5) state ‘plants have common physiological processes.’

A book with three or more authors

Reference list:

Include the names of all the authors, in the order they appear in the item.

McDonald, P, Greenhalgh, RA, Edwards, JFD & Morgan, CA 2002, Animal nutrition, 6th edn, Pearson Education, Harlow.

In-text referencing examples:

If there are three or more authors, list only the first, followed by ‘et al.’

Water is a key component in animal foods (McDonald et al. 2002).

McDonald et al. (2002) indicate water to be a key component in animal foods.

A book without an author

Reference list:

The little green data book 2002, International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, Washington.

In-text referencing examples:

In Australia, nine of the mammal species are listed as threatened (The little green data book, 2002).

According to The little green data book (2002) nine of Australia's mammal species are ...

A book by an organisation or institution

Reference list:

National Research Council 2007, Nutrient requirements of horses, 6th rev. edn, National Academies Press, Washington, DC.

In-text referencing examples:

It is unnecessary to add fluorine to the equine diet (National Research Council 2007).

The National Research Council (2007) suggest it is unnecessary to add fluorine to the equine diet.

An edited book

Reference list:

Sutherland, WJ (ed.) 2006, Ecological census techniques: a handbook, 2nd edn, Cambridge University Press, Cambridge.

In-text referencing examples:

A structured approach is necessary when planning and undertaking a wildlife census (Sutherland 2006)

Sutherland (2006) stresses the need for a structured approach when planning ...

Chapter in a book

Elements of the citation

Author(s) of chapter – surname and initials Year of publication, 'Title of chapter – in single quotation marks', in Editor(s) of book (eds), Title of book – italicised, Edition, Publisher, Place of publication, Page numbers.

Reference list:

Laca, E & Demment, M 1996, 'Foraging strategies of grazing animals', in J Hodgson & A Illius (eds), The ecology and management of grazing systems, CAB International, Wallingford, UK, pp. 137-58.

In-text referencing examples:

Foraging behaviour has long term effects on rangelands (Laca & Demment 1996).

Laca and Demment (1996) look at the long term effects of foraging behaviour on rangelands.

Journal Articles

Elements of the citation

Author(s) of journal article – surname and initials Year of publication, 'Title of journal article – in single quotation marks', Title of journal – italicised, Volume, Issue or number, Page number(s).

Print or Electronic with page numbers

Reference list:

Indirect Citation

An indirect citation is when the ideas of one author are published in another author's text; however you have not read or accessed the original author's work. In the list of References provide the details of the author of the work you have read.

Reference list:

Agrios, GN 2005, Plant pathology, 5th edn, Elsevier Academic Press, Burlington, Mass.

In-text referencing examples:

Miller (cited in Agrios 2005) found ...
... it was found (Miller, cited in Agrios 2005).

Common In-Text Variations

If two or more works by different authors are cited at the same time, separate them with a semicolon.

Example:

The implications for land degradation have been much debated (Malinowski et al. 1995; Thomson 1999).

If two or more works by the same author are cited at the same time, do not repeat the author's name. Separate the years of publication by a comma.

Example:

Subsequent investigation confirmed these results (Watson & Clark 1996, 1998).

Multiple works by the same author, published in the same year, have the letters 'a', 'b', etc. to the year to distinguish the works. Also add these letters to the year in the list of references at the end of the essay.

Example:

... ecological requirements of gliding mammals (Goldingay 2000a) however it has been argued they are effective pollinators (Goldingay 2000b).

Journal articles are sometimes available on databases before they are officially published. In this case the words 'in press' are used instead of the year.

Example:

According to Everson et al. (in press) paying for environmental services ...

Setting out your Reference list

Your Reference list should be set out in alphabetical order by author. If no author, use the title of the item. If the title begins with the, a or an use the first letter of the second word as a guide to placement within the alphabetical list.
